Celebrating 70 years of exceptional publishing
Our Story

Founded in 1949, Edinburgh University Press is among the leading academic publishers in the UK, rooted within one of Britain’s oldest and most distinguished centres of learning.

Focusing on books and journals in the humanities and social sciences, we are globally known for combining innovative scholarship with high editorial and production values to produce significant works of lasting importance.

We are proud to put our authors at the centre of all we do. We offer close personal attention from the commissioning stage through to cover design, publication, marketing and beyond.
We work in partnership with the experts on our doorstep...

A message from Dr Alex Thomson, Convenor of Press Committee

On its way to publication, every EUP project has to meet the approval of the Press Committee. Bringing together a group of senior academics with expertise across the fields in which we publish, the Committee provides two services of great value to the Press and its authors. Rigorous critical scrutiny ensures that every new book and journal meets the high academic standards associated with the University of Edinburgh; we also offer expert advice to commissioning editors, ensuring that EUP remains at the leading edge of contemporary research in the humanities and social sciences. A space of true scholarly exchange, the Press Committee provides a unique cross-disciplinary perspective on each and every EUP project. As Convenor it is my privilege to oversee its lively and collegial deliberations.

Our Commitments

Exceptional communication: authors know what’s happening at each stage of their project’s development, with a named contact in every department.

A flexible approach to publishing: open access, colour images, multiple languages – we will explore various format options to find the best fit for each project.
Adapting to address academic needs: we now publish every monograph as a paperback within two years of the hardback release, ensuring our scholarship is accessible and affordable.

Producing the highest-quality scholarship: all EUP research undergoes a rigorous peer-review process to gain insightful feedback, inspire discussion and strengthen projects before publication.

Collaborating to reach a global audience: we work with international sales teams, ebook partners, librarians and bookshops to guarantee our research is discoverable and makes an impact all over the world.
Working with us...

1. Partnership with our editorial team – here to support, guide and develop new books and journals to ensure every project reaches its full potential.

2. Peer review – at least two external readers provide feedback on all proposals.

3. Press Committee – our team of senior academics at the University of Edinburgh critically appraise and approve every new journal and book we publish.

4. Production – our experienced in-house team turn typescripts and articles into finished books and journal issues with high-quality design, printing and binding standards. Editing, proofing and indexing, they’ll act as a go-between for authors, journal editors, copy-editors and typesetters, to provide a seamless process.

5. Promotion – every EUP author and journal editor has a designated Marketing Manager, always on hand to discuss conference promotion, reviews, events, social media and sales.
What our authors and journal editors say about us...

I’ve now received my first copy of my book, and I’m utterly thrilled. I’m just writing to thank you so much for your help and guidance throughout the various stages of editing; your precision, expertise and vision really helped me know where everything was going. I’ve really loved working, or should we say collaborating, with you and the EUP team.

Claire Davison-Pégon,
Université Sorbonne Nouvelle – Paris 3

Thanks so much for all your help. I am very much looking forward to my continued partnership with Edinburgh. You and everyone else with whom I’ve corresponded at Edinburgh have been immensely helpful, and this entire process from start to finish has been smooth.

Vernon W. Cisney,
Gettysburg College

I must say the book came out beautifully. Thank you so very, very much for making this happen. I have been publishing for over thirty years and this is only the second time that my interactions with a publisher have been smooth, effortless, even pleasant. I can’t thank you enough. You are special and you should know that.
